Vincent Van Gogh
On the Road to Tarascon. 1888 (Version II)
16 X 20 inches
Oil on canvas
Addison Thompson Collection

On the left, is the newly discovered version. It is vertical vs. square (like the lost version). Not sure of the size of the lost version? The new version is done in the Spring 1888 vs. the known version which is in the Fall 1888. It is common knowledge that Van Gogh made multiple versions of his paintings.

Van Gogh's multiple versions of his paintings which are based on a timeline. For example, the Van Gogh, Bedroom at Arles. 1888, here are the 3 known versions. Look at the floor in these images and you will see the moss on the floor grow from none to large areas of green. This provides evidence of Vincent slowly losing his grip on the Yellow House.
